Master Facilitators

Jodi Jan Larson, MCC - is a maverick in the profession of coaching bringing over 15 years of coaching and coach training experience to this leader team. Jodi has expressed her passion for generating exceptional leaders by training thousands of coaches to an extraordinary standard that defines the profession of coaching today. Jodi has authored three text books that support the training of coaches globally. She is undaunted in her stand for the greatness of human beings and their fulfillment on creating all of what they are committed to in their personal and professional life.

Mark Hunter, PCC - has been involved in the world of coaching for 14 years now, and currently holds the designation of PCC - Professional Certified Coach through the International Coach Federation. He has a full time coaching practice with focuses in business/corporate coaching, executive leadership coaching, and group/organizational coaching. His passion and commitment is in working with individuals and groups around developing the next level of their leadership, professional reinvention, producing "impossible" results, and getting out of their own way in order to do so. Mark has created exceptional results in his own life and with those around him through effectively and powerfully supporting leaders who may already be very successful at what they do, but are savvy enough to know that their development and training never stops. Compassion, greatness and unleashing human potential are part of Mark's vision for the planet, and are central focuses of his life's work.

Due to the personalized nature of this program, space is limited to 20 participants.
